

Journey

To rise above the earthly din
Of human fall to deadly sin
To fight acts of pride, greed and power
Bring us all to that one hour.

When, like our Lord, we pray for release
May the promise of shame and agony cease.
When the bonds of control break their hold
Then liberty becomes the gift of gold.

Mankind will seek to cause such strife
But the soul will soar to eternal life.
For the courage of the Lord in the human spirit
Can not be enslaved by small men who fear it.

And so the man of God
Marches on where no one has trod.
He will be inspired to use God's gifts of grace
To give Him glory by helping the human race.

Sue Kennedy
June 3, 2006